

Shaare Torah Chart of Acceptable “Kosher Symbols”

Below are major symbols that indicate that foods are acceptable for use by Shaare Torah. There are many other symbols representing agencies around the country and the world – please consult with the rabbi before using products marked with symbols other than those below.

PLEASE NOTE: A “K” by itself is NOT sufficient to determine a food to be kosher and suitable for use at Shaare Torah. The symbol itself may or may not determine if a food is meat, dairy, or pareve (neither meat nor dairy). Foods are usually marked “D” or “Dairy” next to the symbol, or clearly indicated to be Meat. Pareve is sometimes indicated by the symbol by itself (with no “D” or “Meat”, or by the word “Pareve.” Note that sometimes a “P” denotes foods for Passover use – check with the rabbi if you are not sure.

Non-processed, non-packaged foods such as uncut fruits and vegetables in their natural state may be purchased without a hechsher symbol; All meats must come from an approved source. Cheeses and wines require an appropriate kashrut symbol or kashrut certification. See the synagogue kashrut policy or consult the rabbi for full details.
